Rep. Ruwet Conducts Class on How Laws Are Written

State Rep. Anne L. Ruwet, R-65th, Torrington, taught a class of fourth and fifth grade students in Torrington's Minds and Motion program on how a bill becomes a law. The one and a half hour class included role-playing by students in the various elements of the Connecticut state legislative process. It was part of a daylong program at Torrington Middle School attended by a large number of parents.

Rep. Ruwet participated in the program for gifted and talented students with Board of Education member Paul Cavagnero and the new Torrington Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Susan W. O'Brien.

"This program is now in its tenth year," said Rep. Ruwet, "and it is an honor to be invited to participate. It was a well organized and much needed day for the students of Torrington. "

Rep. Ruwet added, "The process of writing news laws is an extremely interesting one, with input coming from many different sources. I enjoyed working with the students to explain the process."

"As a result of this class," said Rep. Ruwet, "I would hope students become more involved in the political process and even run for public office one day."

Rep. Ruwet serves the 65th Assembly District of Torrington in the state House of Representatives.
